The Student Styles

which we now have on display for young men are the most radical styles we have ever shown. They are different from the men's garments in every point. The fabrics are different, the colors are different and the garments are made in entirely different styles and on very different lines. The fact that we control practically nine-tenths of the young men's trade in this city speaks well for the alertness of our buyers. If there is any one part of this store in which we take special pride it is the young men's department.

Mr. Ruess also beat the rest of the boys last winter at the same work.

Stick to the Facts

The good book says: "Answer a fool according to his folly, lest he be wise in his own conceit."

Whether one could substitute the word "knave" for "fool" and keep within the precepts laid down by the ancient law, is not known to us, but it seems as if it might be justifiable at times. That is our only excuse for replying in any way to the minor assertions made by the Reporter for some time past concerning the city government and the men who are now running for office.

The Reporter says that the city is bankrupt and claims that the conditions are due to the fact that the city government is democratic. This is a deliberate falsehood. The city is not under a democratic administration at the present time nor has it been so at any time since consolidation. Three-fourths of all the city officers are republicans, and have been republicans for years past. If the city went bankrupt with three-fourths of the administration republican what would it have been had they all been republicans.

Neither is the city bankrupt. It is true that enough taxes have not been raised to pay the running expenses of the city without an overdraft, but an individual or a community may have an overdraft, or in other words, a debt, without being bankrupt. There is no question but what we will have to raise more money by taxation if we wish to run the city properly. We have an elaborate school system, and after this year it will be even more elaborate than it ever was before and it will cost more money to run it. There are numerous improvements badly needed in the city that will have to come in time no matter how much economy is preached, and taxes, instead of decreasing, will undoubtedly increase. The trouble has been that past administrations have been too liberal while spending money and too stingy when it came to assessing the taxes.

If the Reporter or his hired men want to criticize the mayor, or the clerk or the city attorney or any member concerned in the city government, it has a perfect right to do so. Some newspaper men imagine that their sole mission on earth is to try to drag somebody else down to their level, and they follow out their bent whenever the opportunity offers. We do not kick on this, as it is just what we and everybody else expect. What we do object to is dragging the democratic party in and attempting to make a political issue of what is purely a personal matter. We know they are prevaricating when they say anything of the kind, and every other fair minded man knows it also.

The Reporter people have seen fit to place Geo. W. Davis in nomination for the office of mayor. So far as we know he is a gentleman of honor, would make a good officer and could be relied upon to do as he promised. We think the same thing can be said of Dr. Frank Fomainville, and we have not seen it denied. The only thing that has been said against Mr. Fomainville is that he is a busy man and would not have time to attend to city affairs. We cannot see why the same statement would not apply to Mr. Davis. He is employed by the county and is receiving a fairly good salary for his time, and we certainly believe that if he attends to his office at the courthouse he will not have much time to administer the affairs of the city, not any more than the average professional man.

The position of mayor is one that carries with it very little reward except the honor (?) attached to it. In view of this fact the man who takes the office must be a man who is getting his living elsewhere, and not expect to depend on the office of mayor.

The Reporter people are certainly having a bad time of it trying to make somebody believe that there is a great deal of excitement over the coming election. They have used the largest type in the office, thrown in lots of italics and small caps, and no doubt their two hundred subscribers have been duly impressed. We understand that the whole trouble started because the editor thought he was not getting enough of the city printing. He got just as much as the rest of us, and should have been satisfied. Mighty few of us get all the plums nowadays, and if one gets his share he should be satisfied.

Once more we humbly ask the Reporter to stick to the truth. It really doesn't hurt a fellow to tell the truth occasionally even tho' it may be a surprise to himself and to his friends. Leave out the democratic party and pick out the man you want to roast and roast him. If the city has not been run right do not blame it onto a party, for no man concerned in the government of the city has been elected on a party ticket, nor do we think that a question of a man's political belief ever came into the voters' mind.

Mike Smith, a young fellow from Milwaukee, used August Okay on Wednesday last in Justice Brown's court for $100, a sum of money which he claimed was due him for wages. There were a number of witnesses sworn and it became apparent that Mike was a little tangled in his testimony, so much so that his attorney moved for a non suit without waiting for the decision of the judge in the matter. Mike claimed that he had been working for Mr. Okay for several months last fall, but the testimony seemed to show that he had been simply staying there and doing odd jobs for his board.

A Few Left.

There are still a few of our subscribers who have failed to make their ante good in connection with their subscription to the Tribune. We dislike very much to mention each matter to our subscribers but it is a case of have to. We must either have the subscriptions paid up or else stop the paper, according to a recent ruling of the postmaster general. All of our subscribers who are in arrears have received notice and they know where they are at, so they need not be surprised if, when the time comes, their paper fails to show up.

Delegates in Session

There were something like one hundred delegates in attendance at the potato raters convention held in this city yesterday. The day was taken up largely by speakers, by the members and Mr. Cernakow, one of the state officers of the association. There were some very good discussions along the line of supply and demand that might be applied as readily to other commodities as potatoes. The sessions are being held in the court room, and today delegates of the American Society of Equity are holding a session there.

City Club Celebrates.

About twenty-five members of the City Club assembled at the club rooms on Tuesday evening and partook of a sumptuous repast as a sort of a celebration of St. Patrick's day. Everything was green from the ribbons worn by the waitresses to the decorations that graced the board at the side of each guest's place.

At the conclusion of the banquet the tables were cleared, cards were gotten out and several hours were spent very pleasantly in playing cards. The evening as a whole was a very pleasant one and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

After the Truants.

Sheriff Welch has had his hands full for some time past attending to his business as truant officer, and as the roads have been very poor and he has had to make many long trips, with practically no compensation, the work has not been very pleasant. The truants are gotten out by the county truant officer who hands them to the sheriff, and the latter does the rest. The laws against truancy are now very stringent and are being enforced more than ever before.

The sheriff goes right to the house and serves the papers upon the head of the house, and at the same time the parent is warned that if the children are not in school within five days the parent will be arrested. If the child is not sent to school the father is arrested and fined and then if there is any further trouble the child can be taken and sent to some industrial school for education.

Sheriff Welch reports that so far people who have had papers served on them have immediately made arrangements to comply with the law, so that no arrests have followed.

The law provides that the child must be sent to school twenty days in the month for at least six months in the year in the towns and villages, and for 9 months in cities.

Teachers' Examinations.

The applicant may write on the additional branches for a first grade certificate at any time during the life of the second grade certificate.

Robert Morris,
Co. Supt. of Schools.
Dated at Appleton, Wis., Mar. 6, 1908.

Two Veterinarians.

They tell a story about two concerning two of our world-bee veterinarians. The story says that there were a couple of young men in the city who had been practicing as veterinary surgeons without a license. The state board of veterinarians notified them on the fact and sent a man here to plain clothes to look into the case. They say that the man fired a horse at one of the lively stables and went to one of the horse doctors and stated that there was something the matter with the animal's teeth. After a careful examination he was informed that the horse was in a bad way and about $1.00 would be required to fix it in good shape again. The work was done, the money paid, and the man went on his way.

Then he visited the other horse doctor and he fixed the horse's teeth once more and made a charge of 75c. This was also paid and later the embryo horse doctor was surprised to find that they have been fooled and that there will be a settlement with the officers of the law.

Was Evidently Bughouse

On Monday morning early a man appeared at the county jail and asked Sheriff Welch to lock him up, claiming that a number of people were after him trying to do him up. The sheriff had no reason for locking him up, so advised the man to go on his way. Later in the day he appeared at the jail again and asked again to be protected from his enemies, so the sheriff decided to investigate the case. The man was found to have money in his possession and stated that he had been in an asylum once but that he had made his escape and that there was nothing the matter with him, only that his enemies were following him about trying to do him up. The man gave his name as Wm. Weller and later he bought a ticket for Dayton, Ohio, and left for home.

Wm. Bublitz.

Wm. Bublitz, the man who was confined in the county jail several days suffering with a severe mental aberration, died Saturday morning, cause of death being kidney trouble. The remains were taken to Ragan's undertaking rooms and from there to the home in the town of Port Edwards and on Monday the funeral was held at Nekoma, the services being conducted in the German Lutheran church of that place.

Mr. Bublitz was a man 52 years of age and had been a resident of Port Edwards for twenty years past. He is survived by his wife and seven children.

Defendant Found Guilty.

Thos. Kief of Appleton was up before Justice Brown on Friday on a charge of assault on the complaining witness, being Mrs. Cora Brown of the same town. The judge under the fine $1, with which the costs amounted to $14.50.

It seems that Mr. Kief has a daughter who left his home and went to live with Mrs. Brown, at the same time making some rather serious charges against her father. One day Mr. Kief went after his daughter and found only Mrs. Brown at home. He entered the house in spite of Mrs. Brown's protests, got his daughter, and pushing Mrs. Brown out of the way, left the house.

While the assault was not a very serious one, appearances were rather against Kief and the jury could only find him guilty, at the same time asking the clemency of the court.

SCHOOL MEETING.

Four New Members Placed on the Board at Monday Night Session.

The regular annual school meeting was held at the Lueglin school building on Monday evening. The crowd in attendance was not large, but the different wards were well represented.

After the organization of the meeting the report of Secretary Younger was read, showing the condition of the city schools and the improvements and changes during the past year and what it was hoped to accomplish in the future. Mr. Younger's report was a good one and it is the intention to have it published in the local papers. The election of committees resulted as follows:

BALKAN CRISIS PROVOKED BY POWERS' GREED NATIONS NOT IN ACCORD

Alliance to Press Reforms Upon the Porte Crippled
by Inability of Christian Governments to Agree —Quarrel Among Themselves Over Loot and Self-Interest—Peace of the World Imperiled.

Marquis of Argenson, Louis XV's great minister, wrote: "The first great change that will take place in Europe will probably be the conquest of Turkey. This empire grows weaker because of its bad government, and because it is impossible that this government should become better, and quite sure that it will grow worse."

THE CHIEF OF RUSSIA

"They are rising in the Ottoman empire. Every day the feathers fall from the wings of the Turkish eagle."

So it seemed to this frightened man several centuries ago, but today there is only one fact of the Balkan situation upon which all sane westerners agree, and that is the growing strength of the Turkish military resources, writes Stephen Bush in the Philadelphia Ledger. That is a formidable body of trained and fanatical men, some 300,000 strong, that transpire the Christian peasants of Macedonia under foot, and after looking the situation over, the intervening powers of Christianity have not fallen out among themselves on a question of railway concessions.

Threat for Advantage.

The case of holy Russia and Emperor Joseph, who was called to rule the holy Roman empire, are exchanging letters, which, while the diplomatic forms are still observed, recall the sturdy wars of railway kings. The slanders or contentions between the powers which was to press reforms upon the Porte that would make it possible for the Christian subjects of the Porte to live in peace and yet live Christian lives, has been disrupted by the greed of gain and the thirst for political advantage experienced by the powers, which have in the last decade planned themselves upon extending a mandate in Macedonia which they had received from untried humanity.

It is a pitiful end of the reform decade, and the best that can be said of the situation is that today the Christian peasants are not much worse off than they were before, and that those who have survived their bitter experiences are probably much wiser than they were when they began their political schooling under such august patronage.

Taking the optimistic view, the Turkish soldier is not at all a brute and the Turkish official is not always a thief. Looking backward now, the more than designated peasantry of the Macedonian highlands doubtless recall the pleasant days of before the uprising, the days when they had not heard of a Pan-Slav or a Pan-Hellenic propaganda; when they did not know whether they were Serbians, Rumanians, Bulgarians or Greeks, and didn't much care.

The Railway Row.

The railway row is clearly a pretext for and not the cause of the split in the joint Macedonian policy of Russia and Austria. Russia has not even the remotest intention of building a railway from the Danube to the Adriatic,

BEFORE AND AFTER MARRIAGE.

Wife Found Dainty Handkerchiefs a Thing of the Past.

You can't always tell what sort of a husband a man will make by the presents he sends a girl while he is courting her.

Here is a story that will point this moral:

A certain very charming lady who has a family of nearly grown children tells a funny tale of the difference a year of married life with its practical demands will make in a man's way of looking at things. Before they were married her husband had a great penchant for pretty handkerchiefs; any bit of dainty embroidery or lace would appeal to him as exactly the right thing to present to his wife. At one time he gave her two beautiful, costly handkerchiefs, one of which was worth five dollars apiece; another time he received three at the same price. Then half a dozen for which he paid $15. She had visions of her Romeo spending his future contributing the amenities of life to her.

AS THEY SAY IN BOSTON.

Old Sayings Clothed in the Language of the Modern Athens.

Ancient history tells of a Boston spinster who was so fond of the speech of her dog's "trousers" that she "panted." The city analysts also hold record of a school miss whose verbal nimble brought forth the proverb, "Imagination is the common or garden variety of the common or garden intellect." But both of these more or less historic instances are far outdone (even assuming their genuineness) by the latest bit of literary intelligence from the Massachusetts metropolis, which gravely announces that "A simple paraphrase of the good old 'Gin a body meet a body,' runs thusly: 'Akin to the agency of one individual encountering another, in the act of extracting nutriment from the ovary of the common or garden intellect.'"

A Nation's Greatness.

The eminence, the nobleness of a people, depends on its capability of being stirred by memories, and of striving for what we call spiritual ends—and which consist not in immediate material possession, but in the satisfaction of a great feeling that animates the collective body as with one soul.—George Elliot.

peninsula. He visited Sofia and Belgrade, and advised the Servians as well as the Bulgarians to cultivate the more peaceful and above all more law-abiding methods in their Macedonian propaganda.

Count Lamsteroff then proceeded to Vienna, where he had many conferences with Count Goluchowski, the Austro-Hungarian minister of foreign affairs. Together they drew up an elaborate program of reforms, which was, of course, immediately accepted by the Porte in February, 1903. The details of the proposed reforms are unimportant here and now. They never passed beyond the paper stage. The integrity of the sultan's dominions and his unimpeded sovereignty were safeguarded by them, and in their proposals the powers remained well within the limits of policy defined by that important article 23 of the treaty of Berlin.

A Bloody Insurrection.

The result of the application of these paper reforms did not remain in doubt for more than a week. Instead of the pacification and a peace of the peninsula, which the powers had expected, the blood-drenched land, came the most bloody and formidable insurrection that the rebellious-ridden country had ever seen. It required 300,000 of the best troops of the Ottoman forces to uphold Turkish authority, and even with this tremendous display of force, the Turks made but little headway against the insurrection until the fall, when many of the Bulgarian bands, yielding rather before the onset of winter than of the Turks, withdrew across the frontier.

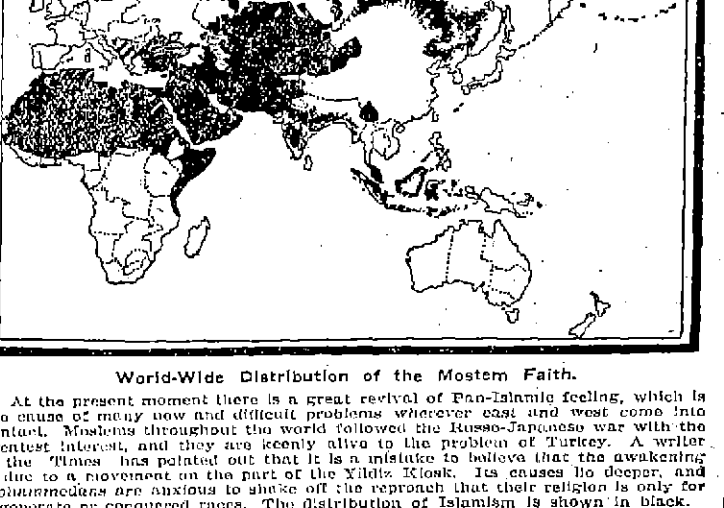

To bolster up their shattered prestige in the Balkans, in consequence of the summer's bloody work, the czar of Russia and the emperor of Austria met at Muersterg in October. As a result of this imperial conference the intervention of Europe in Macedonian affairs became for the first time direct, but the results of the new course fell far short of expectations. In the first place because of the wonderful ability of Hilmi Pasha to checkmate every move made by the agents of the powers, and in the second because of the well-nigh insuperable difficulty that was experienced in bringing the agents of the powers to act with unanimity or even in good faith.

However, at least the Muersterg program created two organs of control, or buffers between the Turkish authorities and the Christian peasants of Macedonia. Two civil agents, one Austrian, one Russian, and the other Herr von Moller, an Austrian, were authorized to and expected to control the action of the Turkish authorities. They were expected to shadow the sultan's general, to indicate to him the reforms which they thought would prove helpful, and to listen attentively to the complaints of the Christian inhabitants. They were ordered and authorized to investigate all complaints that were brought to their attention, but unfortunately the investigation had always to be held in the presence of a Turkish functionary—in other words under circumstances where no Christian peasant, after 600 years of Turkish oppression, would dare tell the truth. Something more than moral support was required to make the slave of centuries stand up and defend himself.

In addition to the restraint of the civil agents, there were appointed a large number of foreign officers to serve with the Turkish constabulary. An Italian general was placed in command of the constabulary reorganization scheme, and to him were attached most of the foreign officers for Macedonia. The sultan may be expected to resist such an appointment, for he would see in it the prelude to the loss of the province. Turkish history has taught him that.

The secretary for foreign affairs says the concert of powers must either justify or stultify itself. That is, it must either demand further concessions of Turkey, or it must be allowed to do the latter, then Turkey will be obdurate and the peace of Europe may be imperiled once more. Whether any power is prepared to side with Turkey, and block reform in Macedonia remains to be seen. There have been rumors that one or another power would do this, but as yet nothing is certain.

World-Wide Distribution of the Moslem Faith.

World-Wide Distribution of the Moslem Faith.

At the present moment there is a great revival of Pan-Islamic feeling, which is the cause of many new and difficult problems wherever east and west come into contact. Moslems throughout the world are becoming more and more united, and they are keenly alive to the problem of Turkey. A writer in the "Times" has pointed out that it is a mistake to believe that the awakening is due to a movement on the part of the Yildiz Kiosk. Its causes lie deeper, and its consequences are destined to shake off the shackles of the past. The distribution of Islamism is shown in black.

SEED COMPANY'S PLANT BURNS. Warehouse and Office of L. L. Olds Company Totally Destroyed.

Janesville.—The L. L. Olds Seed company of Clinton suffered a $50,000 fire which totally destroyed their large warehouse and office. The fire started in the cloakroom on the second story, evidently from a match, and fanned by a strong east wind, soon enveloped the entire structure in flames. At a critical period the water works system of the village gave out, and private wells were called into use. Several adjacent buildings caught fire, but were quickly extinguished. There was a little insurance. The Olds company is the largest seed company in the west, and employed 60 hands. It will rebuild immediately.

TOMB OF CONFUCIUS

MODEST SHRINE MARKS GREAT LEADER'S RESTING PLACE.

Sixty-Seven Generations of His Family Have Lived in Place Where Illustrious Chinese Philosopher Was Born.

A new edition of this famous paragraph among its descriptions of the German port of Tsingtau and of about 60 routes to the Shantung province of China:

"At Tsingtau, on passports and cards presented to Duke Kung, permission is granted to visit the temple and tomb of Confucius."

Many knowa tomb were very old before that of Confucius was built, but there is no doubt that Duke Kung can show a longer pedigree than any other person. He is the latest in the line of the descendants of Confucius, and the family has lived for 17 generations in the very place where the illustrious Chinese philosopher was born and died.

The remarkable history of this family is due largely to the attitude of the Chinese toward the descendants of the great teacher. The family is the only example of hereditary aristocracy in the empire. The head of the house is an independent nobleman, ranking next to the imperial family, supported by the state on the rental derived from nearly 300,000 acres of land, and distinguished by various special honors and privileges. The governor of the province of Shantung, in the western part of which Confucius was born, is required to prostrate himself nine times when he pays his respects to the duke, but the few Europeans who have visited the place have been simply and cordially welcomed though making only a brief stay. No other family in the world, of course, has a record of having lived for over 2,000 years in one place. Confucius died in his birthplace 2,385 years ago.

Four-fifths of the population of the little city that is followed by the dust of Confucius can trace their lineage to the philosopher. If the place is to be visited hereafter by the tourists who will go to China in increasing numbers as transportation facilities improve there should be some agreement as to the spelling of its name. It is spelled in two ways in the guide book referred to, and Legge, Williamson and some other writers on Confucius have their own original translations for the name of his birthplace. Political reform in China should be accompanied by reform in the Occidental spellings of Chinese place names.

Sequestered among the mountains of Shantung, the town has been almost unattainable by foreigners; and even today few pilgrims, unattended by strong purpose, will undergo the great discomforts of the journey there. Six days are required to reach the town from the railroad at Tsinan fu. The road is too bad for driving, and the choice is offered to the tourist between six days on a donkey or in a wheelbarrow. The place is called a Mecca of China, but many devotees from the western world are likely to wait for the improvement of transportation facilities.

Some hours before the city is reached the visitor may see the large cemetery in which the remains of Confucius and his descendants repose. Near the top of a gentle eminence is a terrace to which a stone stairway ascends. The terrace is covered with flagging stones, not in the best of repair, for the surface is uneven, and at the further side of the flagging opposite the stairway rises a tombstone of ordinary height, embedded in mortar between cross pieces of stone. The flat surface is covered with the inscription, and in front of the tomb is a large stone altar and a handsome vessel in which incense is constantly burning.

This is the modest and simple tomb of the man who was deified by his countrymen and whose temples, reared for his honor and worship, may be seen in all the larger cities of the empire.

Bridge Made of Knapsacks. A Mexican engineer, Col. Lopez, has planned and perfected a new kind of bridge, made of knapsacks. The framework of each knapsack is made of symmetrically arranged pieces of wood, which can be spread on by means of hinges into boards of known length. The knapsacks are hinged, and when the stream to be bridged is reached, the wooden forms can be promptly extracted from their canvas or leather coverings and quickly bolted into place. A number of experiments have been made by the military authorities, and it has been found that a knapsack bridge will support as many men as can be crowded upon it. In the military schools there are now working models of these bridges, and the men and officers, says the Mexican Herald, "have regular practice in the construction and operation of the puente." The idea can also be applied to the scaling of walls or the climbing of barricades.

Georgia Cotton Seed Sent to Mexico. R. H. Smith of Monticello, Ga., one of the most prominent cotton planters in Georgia, was in Atlanta recently superintending the shipment of 20 tons of seed cotton which he had grown, to Elders Ulmer of Torreon, Coahuila, Mexico.

The fame of these seeds has spread over the country, and Mr. Smith is making quite a name for himself and his cotton by its extensive sale and general use.

This cotton will be placed in Mexico, and doubtless will bear fruit equal to that secured from it in Georgia.

This is the longest distance shipment of seed cotton yet recorded from Georgia.—Atlanta Constitution.

Would We Chose Our Relations? Little Austin, on his return from the picnic, after gazing long and fixedly at the plain-looking brother of his companion, seated across the car, said: "Sav, Tom, if that boy over there wasn't your brother, and you just met him, would you choose him for your brother?"—Harper's Weekly.

Three Cures of Eczema. Woman Tells of Her Brother's Terrible Suffering—Two Cures Also Cured—Cuticura Invaluable.

"My brother had eczema three different summers. Each summer it came out between his shoulders and down his back, and he said his suffering was terrible. When it came on the third summer, he bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and gave it a fair trial. Soon he began to feel better and he cured himself entirely of eczema with Cuticura. A lady in Indiana heard of how my daughter, Mrs. Miller, had cured her little son of terrible eczema by the Cuticura Remedies. This lady's little one had the eczema so badly that they thought they would never cure it. She had Cuticura Ointment and they cured her child entirely, and the disease never came back. Mrs. Sarah E. OLD GENTLEMAN NOT PLEASED. Letter's Inscription Certainly the Reverse of Flattering.

In the English club at Hongkong a white-haired old gentleman, who had come down from some northern port, was seated at dinner when he suddenly became very excited. He had been brought a letter by a solemn-faced Chinese butler, and he saw something on the outside of the letter which sent him downstairs two steps at a time to interview the hall porter. When he came back he told us what was the matter. The hall porter had inscribed in the letter, in Chinese, for the information of the butler:

"This is for the old balloon with white fur."

Unfortunately for the hall porter, the old gentleman was a first-class scholar in the Chinese language.

Lesson in Music. Little Marion's music teacher, while endeavoring to make plain to her the different note values, used an apple as an illustration. Cutting it in two, Marion announced: "Those pieces are halves." On bisecting the halves, she replied "Quarters," but when it came to dividing one quarter to bring out the idea of eighths, here was the wise response: "That's a bite!"

Diplomacy. "Why do you make a practice of predicting bad weather?"

"It's the safest plan," answered the professional prophet. "If the bad weather prediction comes true, people have to admit I am right, and if the weather is pleasant they feel too good-natured to care whether I was right or wrong."

Sole-Consignment.

Newspaper organs of "the insurgents," from the New Stephenson organ to the J. Pierpont Morgan organ, recognizing the inevitability of Mr. Bryan's nomination, have been sorely vexed by the Democratic party should persist in its determination to nominate a weak candidate. If the party should name a "conservative" it would be much stronger, they assure it. And they have shed oceans of crocodile tears because the Democracy is intent upon nominating a man "who will be elected."

It is quite well understood by the Democrats of the country that the Democratic interests are fearful that Bryan will be elected. If they were confident that he could not be elected, they would welcome his nomination. The New York Evening Post, however, frank than its Wall Street counterparts, says that "these Republican newspapers are living in a fool's paradise who think that it will be a holiday task to beat him. The forces which make Mr. Bryan's candidacy formidable are not hidden. He has a vast and holding personal following. His vote can be transferred to no other. As a campaigner, he has inexhaustible physical energy, and endless resources of agitation. And on what willing ears his appeals would fall in present circumstances! Are the Republicans not aware how he could retort all their own favorite arguments upon them with terrible force? The Republican platform of 1896 could be read as an indictment of the Republican party of 1908. All the dire consequences of misgovernment there set forth are now swarming home to condemn Republican policies."

A Truthful Endorsement.
The Nebraska state democratic platform endorses Bryan and his followers are out for him strong. The following is part of the endorsement, which is mighty good and original:

"The democratic party will name a man for president who would rather live on a farm at Fairview than to be president owned and controlled by special interests; a man who would rather go down to defeat in the third battle than to mortgage his party before election; a man who for twelve years has been cast and rock to the democratic party. He is democracy's choice—democracy's hope. They tell us that he has been defeated twice. Twice defeated, he has convinced the world that he is right; twice defeated, he has convinced the world that he is worthy to be president; twice he has been forced a republican president to turn his back upon the republican party and to take his stand upon a democratic platform."

Farm Help in Great Demand.

During the past month the commission of labor through the Wisconsin Free Employment office has placed hundreds of men on farms, and there are still many openings for those desiring to go on a farm. There are many men out of employment in the cities, but they seem to prefer to hold out until they can find work in their particular occupations even if they must face poverty for a while. If the workingman will stop to consider the large part of his income which he spends for rent, food, and fuel in the city, he will see that the low money wages paid in cash on the farm are not so low in reality. Persons wishing to go on a farm should address any one of the Free Employment offices in Milwaukee, Superior, Oshkosh or La Crosse, and should give references and details regarding the conditions under which they would go on a farm. Persons desiring help should state kind of work to be done, wages, and whether they would use railroad fare.

An Idea Worth While.

We suggest that the democratic editors of the state get together and form an association, defensive to each an extent as may appear to be necessary, but primarily offensive designed to promote the fortunes of the democratic party in many ways which will occur to them after they begin to think about it.

If there is any advantage in assembly and the interchange of ideas, as there assuredly is, then such an association should be formed. If a large number of the editors of the state were banded together under an intelligent head, their efforts both in the editorial and business fields might be much more effectively directed than is now the case.

We submit the idea with the recommendation that it be given earnest attention. Any man as intelligent as the average editor of a newspaper can find a good deal in this idea if he will give his attention to it and dig for a while.—Darlington Democrat.

A Truthful Endorsement.

The Nebraska state democratic platform endorses Bryan and his followers are out for him strong. The following is part of the endorsement, which is mighty good and original:

"The democratic party will name a man for president who would rather live on a farm at Fairview than to be president owned and controlled by special interests; a man who would rather go down to defeat in the third battle than to mortgage his party before election; a man who for twelve years has been cast and rock to the democratic party. He is democracy's choice—democracy's hope. They tell us that he has been defeated twice. Twice defeated, he has convinced the world that he is right; twice defeated, he has convinced the world that he is worthy to be president; twice he has been forced a republican president to turn his back upon the republican party and to take his stand upon a democratic platform."

Well now, aspirants for town office have begun to peep. They do say that the town board will be up for endorsement. No opposition, as yet, has been heard of against Bill Elbert for clerk. A. Bean withdraws for treasurer and O. Uhlman wants the job, but this being a fat office, there will be more than one candidate in the field. Mr. Kohl, the assessor, thinks he has done well enough for a second term for assessor. For justices of the peace and constables there will very likely be the usual scramble for office—that is, to keep away from them. Now for a united effort to get a good looking set of officers and then the task of reducing taxes in this town.

ORDINANCE NO. 118.

An ordinance declaring certain territory heretofore treated as a Sewer District to be Sewer District No. 5, and adopting a main sewer therein, and approving of sewer tax therein levied.

Whereas, through error, oversight or inadvertence at the time when this city was divided into sewer districts in April 1901, that portion of the city on the west side of the Wisconsin River and south of the east and west quarter line through Section thirteen (13), township twenty-two (22), north of Range five (5) east and through Section eighteen (18), Range six (6) East, was not by number designated a sewer district, though all the balance of the city on the west side of said river was and is embraced and included in sewer district No. six and seven, and whereas, such territory has heretofore been treated as comprising and being a separate sewer district and should for all purposes be so treated and considered.

Now therefore the Common Council of the city of Grand Rapids do ordain as follows:—

I. All of that portion of the city of Grand Rapids on the west side of the Wisconsin river lying south of the east and west quarter line through section thirteen (13), township twenty-two (22) north of Range five (5) east and through section eighteen (18), township twenty-two (22) north of Range six (6) east is hereby named and designated as sewer district No. 5.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Council Rooms, March 10, 1908.

Council met pursuant to adjournment, Mayor Wheelan presiding. Present: Aldermen Arpin, A. D. Hill, Steln, Ellis, Gotschall, Pater, Lukewski, Jackson, Lyon, G. A. Hill and J. Hanson.

Absent: Aldermen Rowson, Nieson, Kubiak, Klatow and Hoesler, 5.

The following report of City Attorney J. J. Jeffery and Attorney Geo. L. Williams was presented and read: To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of the City of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin:

Pursuant to the resolution adopted by you at your last meeting regarding the suit recently brought by the Central Pulp and Paper Company and asking for its opinion as to the rights of the city therein, we beg to submit the following:—

1st. We have carefully considered the validity of the claim and the general law involved in such action, and have prepared and served an answer to the complaint. From our present information and knowledge of the matter we are of the opinion that the city has a good and substantial defense to such action, and will in case of trial stand a fair show of being able to collect the whole amount of the tax as levied.

2nd. An action of the kind in question is liable to take some time and considerable money to all concerned before its final determination. It may possibly involve a judgment which would be expensive. In the meantime the city would be deprived of the use of the large amount of tax (over $3000.00) which is used up by injunction. For these reasons we think it desirable that further effort be made to secure a settlement of the suit, and we therefore recommend the adoption of the resolutions herewith submitted.

3rd. We have prepared and herewith submit an ordinance covering matters involved in the action and respectfully recommend its adoption. In case we are not able to settle out of the ordinance will be of material assistance in protecting the rights of the city. In case the suit is settled the ordinance will be of benefit in the future.

Dated March 10th, 1908.

Respectfully submitted, J. J. Jeffery, City Attorney, Geo. L. Williams, Attorney.

There was presented Ordinance No. 118 designating that part of the City South of the quarter line through Section 13 in Twp. 22 North of Range 5 East and Section 18 Twp. 22 Range 5 East as sewer district No. 5 and declaring to be a main sewer that certain sewer constructed in said sewer district under resolution of the Council passed June 4, 1907, and said Ordinance was, by unanimous vote, the Clerk calling the roll, adopted.

(Same may be seen in legal form.)

That a copy of the ordinance was presented and, on motion, adopted.

Resolved, That the Mayor, City Attorney and Attorney Geo. L. Williams be and they are hereby instructed to at once negotiate with the representatives of the Central Pulp & Paper Company and learn if a reasonable compromise and adjustment of the tax matter and suit can be made. That, after having had such negotiations, the Mayor call a special meeting of this Council and report the result thereof to said Council for their further action thereon.

The following resolution was presented and, on motion, adopted, State of Wisconsin, Wood County in Circuit Court.

In the matter of the application of the City of Grand Rapids for the condemnation of lands for the widening of the street in said City, known as Oak street. Whereas a judgment has been duly entered in the Circuit Court of said County condemning a strip of land twenty feet in width of the South westerly side of Lots 1-3 and 4, Block thirty (30), Naves addition to the City of Grand Rapids and more particularly described in the Petition filed in said Court, for the purpose of widening Oak street and,

Be It Resolved by the Common Council of the City of Grand Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin:—

First,—That the Board of Public Works of said City is hereby directed to make an assessment of the damages by reason of such condemnation.

Second,—That said Board of Public Works is further directed to make an assessment of benefits by reason of such condemnation.

Passed, adopted and approved this 10th day of March 1908.

The matter of getting three (3) new ball boxes before the coming municipal election was referred to the City Clerk.

On motion the Council adjourned. O. E. Boles, W. E. Wheelan, Mayor.

WIFE OF WHITE'S SLAYER ASKS A DIVORCE.

HUSBAND DEFENDS SUIT

Though Now Confined to Asylum He Will Fight Separation, According to Announcement—Couple Agree to Remain Apart.

New York.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Wednesday instituted proceedings for the annulment of her marriage to Harry K. Thaw. The action was based on the allegation that the defendant was insane when the union was contracted. Thaw planned to defend the suit. The papers in the case were served and an early trial is expected. In the meantime the two, by mutual agreement, will remain apart.

In official statements, by counsel for both parties, was confirmed the long-suspected culmination in the wedded life of Stanford White's slayer, and the woman whose story in his defense brought her an unhappy notoriety as wide as the reading world. For weeks it had been gossiped that a divorce was imminent, and even during Thaw's last trial, throughout which his wife stood staunchly by him, it was pretty generally believed that, whatever the outcome for the prisoner, the two would never again live together. These reports were frequently based on rumored opposition to the young woman on the part of the Thaw family.

KING HAakon IS IN PERIL

INSANE SWEDS SEEKS LIFE OF THE MONARCH.

Fires Fullfilled into Windows of Palace of Ruler, But His Effort Fails.

Christiania.—A Swede, apparently insane, fullfilled the royal castle here with a Remington rifle at noon Tuesday. He fired altogether a dozen bullets, several of which crashed through the windows, and embedded themselves in the interior walls of the castle.

The man was promptly seized by the police and disarmed. At the police station he declared that it was his intention to kill King Haakon. He still had 40 or 50 cartridges in his pockets.

King Haakon and Queen Maud were not in the castle at the time of the shooting, having recently moved to the royal residence at Vigeland. None of the palace officials or servants was injured.

The name of the Swede is Johannes Green. He has lived here for several years and followed the trade of a blacksmith. His grievance appears to be that King Haakon received too large a salary from the public funds, and to the police he declared that

HOW TO BROIL A STEAK. A WELL MAN, AT 81.

Rules That Must Be Observed to Attain Success.

The interesting experience of an O. Settler of Virginia.

There are several rules to be observed if the steak is to be a success. The fire should be clear and free from smoke, the grilliron should be scrupulously clean, well heated and greased before the meat is put on.

If the fire is too hot the meat will be hardened and scorched; if not hot enough the juice will escape and the steak will be "lumpy."

The grilliron should be held slightly over the fire so that the fat may run off to the back of the grate. If it is dropped on the coal a large will result which will blacken the meat, and cause it to have a smoky flavor.
